A complete department store of car service is offered by Firestone Service Stores, Inc., 274-283 E. Center street. At this station motorists receive all services needed to take care of every day driving needs; all under one roof. The public benefits both from a standpoint of convenience as well as economy.

Modern tools and machinery in the hands of skilled workmen result in a prompt, complete service. Women drivers, particularly, are pleased with the many extras provided for their convenience.

You will enjoy preparing your car for Labor day driving at this one-stop station. Special attention should be given to tires and condition of the brakes. The price for safety is small. Faulty brakes spoil driving pleasure and endanger life. Whether your brakes need relining or merely adjusting, the Firestone Dynamic Brake tester does away with all guess-work and gives an actual picture of the condition of the brakes on your car. Brake Adjustment will cost only $1; yet may prevent a costly accident.

Firestone's manufacturing interests cover a large number of items. Those of which are sold locally by Firestone Service Stores, Inc., include: Firestone tires and tubes, Firestone batteries, Firestone brake lining, Firestone spark plugs, and dozens of Firestone accessories.

Firestone Service Stores One-Stop Service for Motorists includes:

Tire service, brake testing and service, spark plug testing and service, battery service, washing, lubricating, top dressing, polishing and nationally recognized brands of gasoline and oil.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires Provide Safety Every Car Should Have at Lowest Prices

"The thing that has done more to bring Firestone to the foremost rank of tire manufacturers is the fact that even the tire he manufacturers bears his name. O. E. Bonnell, president and manager of Firestone Service Stores, Inc., said in discussing the tire industry:

"Firestone will not compete with himself. He has the largest and most efficient dealer organization in the country. He competes in every price field in the tire market and is yet to be beaten on quality and value in the retail consumer."

Firestone is recognized as being almost responsible for the fact that the public is still able to buy tires at tax free prices although the tax has been in effect for many months. Firestone flatly refuses to be made the victim of misleading "price" campaigns as conducted by tire concerns. When competitors announced "tax free prices indefinitely," Firestone replied in kind. "The result," Mr. Bonnell said, "Firestone combines quality and low price. Only Firestone tires are gum dipped. Read the description with the tire illustration and learn why Firestone is the tire that laughs 'Thrill to Millions'."

The Tire That Taught THRIFT to Millions

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
The Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process transforms the cotton cords into a strong, tough, sticky, solid liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, guarding against internal friction and heat, greatly increasing the strength of the cord body, and giving longer tire life.

TWO EXTRA GUM-DIPPED CORD PLIES UNDER THE TREAD
This is a patented construction, and the two extra Gum-Dipped cord plies are so placed that you get 50% stronger bond between tread and cord body, and tests show 50% greater protection against punctures and blow-outs. It sets a new standard for tire performance on high speed cars.

NON-SKID TREAD
Tough, live rubber specially compounded for long, slow wear. Scientifically designed non-skid gives greater traction and safe, quiet performance.

TRADE GIANTS OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR JOBS

Industrial Heads Confident of Future as They Leave Hoover Conference.

make no question of that," asserted the treasury head. Mr. Young nodded assent.

Indicative of their determination, some of the newly appointed committees met last night. Others were in conference today. Behind the voluntary groups was the solid support of federal agencies.

They had one goal in mind—it was consistently and determinedly hammered home yesterday—that every man must have a job and that for every man to go to work capital and credit must be released for productive enterprise. The "industrial and agricultural fronts" were designated by Mr. Hoover as the firing line.

Leaders Named
The six-point plan and the men to head each of the committees to carry it into effect follows:

1. Problem of making available credit affirmatively useful to business. Chairman, Owen D. Young.
2. Increased employment on railroad and stimulation of industry through expansion of maintenance of equipment and purchase of new equipment in cooperation with the interstate commerce commission and the Reconstruction Corporation. Committee consists of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad; and George H. Houston, of the Baldwin Locomotive works, Philadelphia.
3. Expansion of capital expenditures by industry in the way of replacement of obsolete and worn-out equipment. Chairman, A. W. Robertson, of the Westinghouse Electric company, Pittsburgh.
4. Increased employment through sharing work movement. Chairman, Walter C. Teagle, of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, New York.
5. Possibility of stimulating repair and improvement of home movement. Chairman, Sewell Avery, of the United States Gypsum company, Chicago, and C. M. Woolley, of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation.
6. Organization of committees in the several districts to assist home owners with insuring mortgages.

WOMEN WEAKER?
No, Men Are, Doctor Tells Genetics Congress in New York.

By The Associated Press
ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Males, instead of women, were pictured as the real "weaker sex" before the international congress of genetics today.

The male sex said Dr. S. J. Holmes of the University of California, apparently suffers from a "constitutional inferiority" which causes a higher death rate among males than among females in infancy and after birth.

This rule applies to many species of animals as well as humans, Dr. Holmes reported and seems to result from a difference in heredity of males and females.

EVA TANGUAY NEAR DEATH, DESTITUTE
Misfortune Overtakes Famous Stage Star; Appearance in Marion Recalled.

By The Associated Press
HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 27.—Separated from her fortune and in a critical condition as the result of months of illness, Eva Tanguay, famous stage and vaudeville artist of years ago, is under the care of her sister here.

Miss Tanguay had a sinking spell Sunday which brought her almost to the point of death but since then has rallied. She is suffering from a heart ailment, Bright's disease and rheumatism.

The actress' fortune was depleted through Wall street losses, bank failures and the parsing of vaudeville. Mrs. Walter Gifford, the sister, watched over her during the day and they have managed to get together funds to employ a night nurse.

Not many years ago Miss Tanguay's fortune was estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000. Her sister said she now faces eviction from the modest little cottage because of a sheriff's order.

Marion's older theater-goers will recall Miss Tanguay's appearance here about 25 years ago in the leading comedy role of "The Chaparrone," with an all-star company including Trilzie Frigiana, Miss Tanguay, singing her famous "Hambo" song, scored one of the greatest hits in Marion's theatrical history.

FATHER OF SEVEN SLAIN BY DETECTIVES

Lorain B. & O. Officer Claims Self Defense in Fatal Shooting.

By The Associated Press
LORAIN, O., Aug. 27.—Claiming he acted in self defense, a father and Ohio railroad detective last night shot and killed a father of seven children when the officer allegedly found him standing coal.

The slain man was Anthony Seraphino, 41, of Lorain. Detective L. C. Jones, who shot him, said he first ordered the man to stop a jump of coal from his hand.

Seraphino moved as if to throw the coal, the detective said, and the officer fired one shot in warning.

Jones said the man then reached toward a hip pocket, whereupon he fired four shots. Seraphino fell with two wounds in his heart and two in his chest.

Lorain police found no gun in the slain man's pockets or near the scene of the shooting, but released the railroad detective after questioning him.

Body of Slain Man Found in Erie Freight Car at Dayton.
Belief held by Dayton police officials that L. E. Smith of Radcliff, Ky., whose body was found in an Erie freight car in the Erie yards at Dayton yesterday morning, had been murdered and the body placed in the car at Marion, was dispelled by a verdict of the coroner at Dayton this morning. The coroner said the man apparently had been dead for about six hours when found and the report of railroad employees showed the car had been in the Dayton yards for approximately 12 hours.

Dayton police now believe the body of the man, who was killed by a blow on the head, was placed in the car while in the Dayton yards.

A report that Smith had been employed in the union fields at McGuffey, southwest of Kenton, was contradicted by the Erie agent at that place this morning. The agent said the man was unknown there.

The car in which the body was found was empty when it left McGuffey on Aug. 26, the agent reported. The car, according to H. E. Corliff, of Marion, captain of the Erie police here, arrived in Marion early on the morning of the twenty-fifth. It remained there until in the afternoon of the same date when it was switched to a Dayton division train. The car, he said, was not opened while in the local yards.

Invitation Received.
An invitation to attend a centennial celebration on Labor day at Astoria was received by Betty Rose, auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, at a meeting yesterday afternoon at the American Legion dugout. Mrs. R. M. Miller was appointed an aide by the president, Mrs. Thomas Glaze. Contests were won by Mrs. Anna R. Jones, Mrs. Ray Anthony and Mrs. Elsie Mason were serving hostesses.

On Church Program.
Loretta Tillman and her two brothers will furnish a program of music Sunday night at Emmanuel Baptist church. Each of the children plays a stringed instrument and Loretta sings old-fashioned gospel hymns.

Back To the Soil.

Land is the source of all wealth and city dwellers are turning back to the soil in numbers from the job made in industrial employment.

Visiting every city shows by vacant houses and apartments the number of city dwellers who have left. Many of these came from the farm and have been back to take a living from the soil until such a time as prosperity offers more profitable employment.

In normal times industry pays much more for labor than the farm but in the city the unemployed men have the problem of diseases on their hands. In the country there is no such thing as influenza during the growing season, for nature will not send crops unless they are assisted by hard and continuous work.

Life on the farm is not a golden existence. This year, especially, the farmer has small returns in dollars for his labor but he has the satisfaction of knowing that his crop will be the food that he and his family need and a new artificial manner of thinking relative to his other household and personal expenses.

In times of prosperity a back to the soil movement was urged by well-meaning economists but the farm held little allure for boys who could leave the city and stay home $10 a day jobs in industry. When these jobs failed the old farm in the country looked good again.

So anywhere in the rural districts and you will find young men back in the field. You will also find young families who have migrated from the city to escape bad diseases and build new shelters for themselves.

America has plenty of land for all. Ohio has a great expanse of fertile acres which has not all the soil for a decade. So long as the soil itself offers a living to the men who is willing to come and take it.

Industry will return to activity. Young men will leave the city and take up work in the factory. Farmhouses will be abandoned again and city apartments will be filled. There are now, however, who have learned enough of the lesson of the last two years to keep a bit of the soil as a reserve in case of emergency. So far has departed confidence of pleasure and profit of gardening to combine their work regardless of the opportunity which industrial weakening will bring.

Motion pictures are among the most important exports of the United States to France. French people, jealous of this competition which they have never been able to meet with any great amount of success, established quotas and restrictions to curb the American flood of movies.

French critics, in periods when their shipment to the United States was legal, were among that country's most important exports to our shores.

These quotas with their interest in the proposals for repeal or modification of the 18th amendment which would open a large field for the product of his vineyards, have had to find a market for their famous and, in some circles, highly esteemed goods.

France does not wait to abdicate a prospective patronage. Therefore, the report reaches Hollywood, a move to strengthen the French restriction on American motion pictures is deemed and officials are inclined to listen with receptivity and to propose for leading down at least a part of the wall which has been put in the last three years.

Thus the French are willing to trade their wines for American pictures. The vintners of Jampouze, Meudon and the Grapide and the movie makers of Hollywood are glibly and in favor of the plan. Many of their countrymen, on both sides of the Atlantic, are their well-wishers.

Graduate Teachers.
Higher education in the United States is being retarded and hampered by the prevailing practice of hiring graduates as instructors in their own alma mater. This U. S. office of education warns.

Nearly one-third of all the instructors in 40 land-Grant colleges were found to be former pupils of the school. Five schools reported that more than 80 per cent of their teachers were their own graduates.

Education is a broadening influence or collection of influences. Interchange of thought is recognized as a fundamental and there can not be complete freedom of thought without this scholastic "upbreeding" is practiced too extensively, the government agency declines. Graduation becomes so gloved in conditions and prejudices of the institutions that they "lack the broad outlook necessary to scientific achievement."

Comment of the Press
WASHINGTON, March 27.—The House Army committee to Washington. Father Cox's "Ohio Shirts" marched to St. Louis. Striking miners in Illinois marched upon the mines in a veritable army. Perhaps it all started when Mississippi's fascists marched on Rome, or perhaps we could seek a much earlier precedent in George's Army.

Now Ohio, O., has furnished an instance of an other kind of march. Six thousand earnest citizens participated in a taxpayers' march on the Senate county court house there Monday. They demanded reduction of the county budget by drastic cutting of wasteful and class economies.

No haven heard the result, but one takes no chance in watching the press that public officials, with good vectors elaborating outside for economy, are likely to be pretty discomfited in their budgetary activities.

The interest reminds us that a few weeks ago of a fight here over raising that citizens take more in the past. The finance, attempting budget hearings on Monday, they were to the effect. It is not citizens to the effect. It is not citizens to the effect.

The great majority of the citizens, as usual, left the traffic of the highway to those in office, and reserved the right to protest vociferously when the tax rates were announced, about which were when there was all those for our province to accomplish anything.

Many of us also, in this and other counties, overlook the fact that the primary fault is that we have too much government, that the excessive cost comes more from the school stretching taxation, overpayment to officials or public employment than from the taxpayers really set in evidence about reducing taxes they will keep working for the abolishing of townships, the merging of counties, and in the larger communities the consolidation of county and city government under a metropolitan area plan—Columbus City.

Nothing Venture

SYNOPSIS

Nan Forsyth demands ten thousand dollars to marry Jervis Weare, who must find a wife within three days or lose a great fortune to his former fiancée, Rosamund Carew. Rosamund has lifted him at the last moment because his grandfather's will makes her his heir if Jervis fails to marry by a stated time. Considering the arrangement a matter of business, Jervis agrees to pay Nan, who again conceals her secret love for him. She wants the money to make possible her sister's marriage.

CHAPTER SIX

Mystery From the Past

At 9 o'clock on the morning of August 16 Jervis Weare was married to Nan Forsyth in St. Bartholomew's church. Outside it was a peculiarly ugly church. And when Nan passed from the bright morning sunshine into the dusk of the interior she found it smelted of musty pews and cushions and a very depressing smell.

Mr. Page gave her away disappearing, and he and the sexton were the only witnesses. She looked once at Jervis, and saw him as a tall, aloof shadow. She could guess at the frown she could not see. When he took her hand and put the ring on it, his was hot and dry. He rammed the ring down, and there it was.

They got up from their knees and went into the vestry. She wrote herself for the last time Nan Forsyth.

And now your father's name here, Mrs. Weare.

It was the two things coming together that took her off her balance. Mrs. Weare and her father dead in a far country, not knowing tears stung in her eyes; the register disappeared in a mist. She closed her eyes for a moment, and then, opening them, bent and wrote, "Nigel Forsyth," and stood aside while Mr. Page and the sexton signed.

They talked to the house in silence. Jervis' room was not dark like the church, and the two windows were open to the garden. Nan stood by the window so as to get as near to the garden as possible.

"What did you want to talk to me about?" she said.

"I wanted to tell you that Mr. Page is seeing about that $10,000. Have you a banking account?"

He saw her smile for the first time.

"Oh, no," she said.

"You will have to have one. You'd better see Mr. Page about it, and when you have opened the account he will pay the money in. Then, as regards yourself, I have signed a settlement which gives you five thousand a year."

The color flamed into Nan's face.

"I don't want you to. I can get a job."

Mr. Jervis Weare assumed a lofty tone.

"As to that, you can please yourself. Twelve hundred and fifty dollars a quarter will be paid into your account."

"I can't take it," she said in a voice whose distress pierced Jervis Weare's self-absorption.

He reacted with a feeling of acute annoyance.

"Do you mind considering my position for a moment? Do you really expect me to marry a girl and leave her penniless? Why should you have married me if you were going to take up a position like this?"

Why? Nan could have laughed and wept at the question. If she had been in the Palace of Truth she would have said, "Oh, my dear! Why? To save you from being robbed. To save you from the streets." But since these were things to be hidden at any cost, she frowned, looked at him gravely, and said:

"I hadn't thought of it like that."

Her heart said, "Oh, my dear! Her lips spoke quickly.

"I quite see your point of view, but it is too much."

The hurt, angry child disappeared. A rather loffy stranger said in tones of icy politeness:

"The deed is already signed. I would prefer not to discuss the matter any more."

Nan gave a little nod.

"Very well," she said, "Good-bye."

He said "Good-bye" with an air of relief. Then, with her hand still in his, she looked past him and saw the photograph. It hung with other groups above the mantelpiece. Nan did not see the other groups at all. She saw a lawn set about with trees; an old man in a chair, a woman standing beside him, and a third figure—a man walking across the lawn, his back to the camera. It was at the third figure that Nan stared.

"Who's that?" she said.

"His name is Leonard—Robert Leonard—a connection of—my grandfather's. I don't think you are very likely to have met him."

"You are thinking it's very strange that I should ask questions about Mr. Leonard, but I've got a reason. Will you please tell me, where he has been for the last 10 years?"

"Why do you want to know?"

"Because I think I saw him once 10 years ago."

"Why, the photograph doesn't even show his face!"

Nan wasn't remembering a face; she was remembering just that square thicket figure, and just that turn of the head.

"Tell me," she said.

"What do you want to know?"

Ten years ago—10 years ago—well, exactly 10 years ago he was up on visit from Latin America staying with my grandfather. I remember that because I know he was staying in the house when I nearly drowned myself out on Croyston rocks."

Nan had turned very pale.

"Mr. Leonard found you?"

"Oh, no. It was a British fellow who was taking photographs."

Ferdinand Francis rushed into Nan's mind—important, efficient, and immensely talkative. And then he was gone again, and she saw the thicket figure of a man coming from behind the Croyston rocks and walking away towards the headland. He was walking away from Jervis, who lay half in and half out of the pool with a hole in the back of his head and the tide coming up. She said breathlessly:

"I want to know about Mr. Leonard. What happened to him after that?"

"We went back to Latin America."

"Where is he now?"

"Down at Croyston. He's got a chicken farm."

"Thank you," said Nan. She put out her hand again.

"Good-bye," she said. She had wanted to add something—but what?

To Be Continued.

20 Years of Writing To Be Climaxed by Printer-Poet with Third Book of Poems

Fred Keller Dix Writes Verse in Time Not Taken in Publishing Paper.

Fred Keller Dix, editor and publisher of the Prospect Monitor, is preparing to publish his third book of poems.

Like his other two, Dix's new book, to be published next fall, will be a limited edition, probably 400 copies. It will contain three groups of poems on childhood, boyhood and manhood.

The book will be somewhat of an autobiography in verse, for Dix has chosen the commonplace things about him as subjects. His poems have sung of the beauties of the Scioto valley and things and incidents that have been a part of his life.

Profit is not the objective of his plans to publish in book form his writings, which have appeared in more than a score of magazines and hundreds of newspapers. In fact, Dix has never given serious thought to money making in connection with his poetry, he declares.

Receives Many Requests

"I'd be surprised, pleasantly so, if my writing ever would enable me to live by them," he said. "I've had dozens of requests for groups of my poems, and am publishing this book to meet that demand, and to put my writing before the people," he added. He will print the book in his own office at Prospect.

The book, his third and most complete work, will climax 20 years of writing that has won for him recognition as one of Ohio's foremost poets.

Although the publication of the Prospect Monitor keeps Dix busy, he finds time to continue his writing and to spend several hours each week in study. He is an enthusiastic reader, having more than 3,000 books in his home and at his office. Many of his books have been selected to further his education. The Harvard classics, books on literary construction, the art of versification, and books on verse criticism are on his library shelves.

Few persons who have written poetry as a sideline have had such a variety of poems recognized by publication as Dix. His themes range from a delicate description of a sudden splendor and rush of cascading strains, liquid clear, that float from the throat of the hermit thrush, to patriotic lines on "Rouse, Ye Americans," one of his most vigorous poems.

Prefers Homely Verse

Most of all, he likes to write of the "old days" in a reminiscent mood on such subjects as "The Old Hitherlin Post," "The Horse and Buggy Days," "Following Dad," and "The Dinner Bell." His choice of homely subjects has led critics to refer to his verse as Rileysque.

During the war, he wrote a number of poems that stirred the patriotism of his readers. Many were widely reprinted.

"Songs of Nature" was Dix's first poem used in a magazine of general circulation. It appeared in "Human Life," published in Boston, in 1910. A few months later, his poem titled "Trackin' in the Snow" appeared in the same magazine.

Both of these poems were submitted on neatly printed sheets. The printing was done by Dix on a small hand press he had found in the attic of his home. On it he printed all of his earlier poems.

Wrote in School

An interesting and possibly a significant incident occurred during his first years of rhyming. Dix was attending high school at Prospect in 1909 and 1910 when Vernon M. Riegel, for several years state director of education, was superintendent there. One day the superintendent caught Dix scribbling verse when he should have been studying geography. Riegel examined his work and requested Dix to finish it in lieu of the geography lesson. He called on Dix to read it at a literary tea the following week.

Writing poetry and printing it on his small hand press provided the foundation for Dix's ability as a printer, which has since earned him a livelihood, and for his writing, which has given him recognition as a poet.

Instances of this recognition were the winning of a prize for the best patriotic poem in the Ohio edition of the Troubadour magazine in 1920, the publication of his poem, "Sea Shells," in the Yearbook of American Poetry in 1926, and the selection of three pages of his material to appear in a book titled "Ohio Poets" to be published by the Harrison Publishing Co. of New York.

Collectors Seek Copies

In 1915 he published a small book of poems titled "Why the Girls Go Back on Me, and Other Poems." This limited edition was widely praised, and copies of it are sought by collectors. This was followed by a book titled "Poems," published Works Cover Wide Variety of Subjects, but Prefers Homely Style.

In 1921 Again the edition was limited to a few hundred copies. One of them has been placed in the Ohioana Library in the governor's mansion. This book also brought Dix much favorable comment from literary magazines and newspapers.

Since then, Dix has grouped a number of his poems for children on a pamphlet for distribution on request, and they have been reprinted hundreds of times in children's exercises.

Publication of his poems have brought a demand for Dix as a speaker at club and group meetings. He has given dozens of programs, prepared for the particular group he was to address. Men, he said, like his poem "When I Put On Long Pants," patriotic poems, and some of the poems that recall memories of boyhood days. He has arranged other programs for mixed audiences and for women's groups.

A verse, picked at random from one of his poems on bygone days, follows:

"Give me back the horse and buggy."

Old rail fence and covered bridge And a deep-mooned night for courting. Jogging down along the ridge. Every living soul was happy. Every one had friendly ways. The old farm wasn't mortgaged. In those horse and buggy days.

Learned Printing at Prospect

Dix learned the printing trade in the newspaper office he now owns. Before he bought the plant he worked as a printer on the former Marion Tribune, The Marion Star, The Canton Repository, The Louisville Courier-Journal, at the latter plant as assistant foreman of the composing room. He is 40 years old.

In a humorous paper read at the State Fair Press banquet in 1925, Dix said the following of himself and his early ambitions to write:

"I came in from the farm field one night, tired and hungry, and told my father that he ought to let me agree with me and that I wanted to pursue my literary work. After an argument, he consented to let me accept a position as printer's devil in the office of the Prospect Monitor. My first days in a printing office were dark days for the muses. After a while, having slipped into the printing office when the editor was not looking, I began slipping my poems into the columns of the paper."

"I first thought that my style of writing was above the standard around home and fancied my place to be with the New York Sun, so I wrote a letter to the editor and his reply stated that he would be glad to take me on if it were not for the fact that my writing would make all the other members of the staff jealous. So I stuck to the Prospect Monitor."

has been going on. Of course, there is always the possibility that the kidnapers may have seen through both attempts at camouflage, but on the other hand—

"On the other hand," Harry Underwood interrupted, "I'll wager anything they did not. They were the most plausible and official looking things imaginable. It's a lucky thing you're on the inside of things. Hugh Youd spend some time in jail, else."

"Not the major," Dicky said, and there was in his voice a betrayal of the secret against the army officer, which he was trying to conceal. I knew he was furious because Hugh had taken time to explain about the posters to me, but when his voice changed suddenly to cordial, I realized with a little thrill of pride that he had conquered himself and was once more gliding himself for enthusiastic and wholehearted cooperation with Hugh.

Agreement

"Well, never get caught," Dicky went on, and I saw Hugh's eyes brighten suddenly at the unmitigated change in tone, and I agreed with Harry about the effectiveness of those posters. They would fool Sherlock Holmes, I'm thinking. I tried my best to live up to them. I didn't go alone today. I was an observer, and I had one of the best stunt fivers in the business with me. He did all sorts of stunts with the plane a little way from the house, so that I did not believe anyone but the girls realized what was doing when I flew over the house first high above it, then just one hour later, over again, quite low. This was in accordance with Marion's directions, and the light things hung out of the window mean, I believe, that the girls are expecting us.

"I agree with you," Harry Underwood said, and Hugh added heartily, "So do I." They both put another question, and looking at the beads of water standing on his forehead I knew that he was agonized by postponing for a few minutes the decision which might bring death to his idolized stepdaughter and her friend.

Need for Coordination

"Marion's code," Harry said, provided for their barricading the door of their room and lying flat on the floor out of range, when they heard the airplane at night, and stipulated that the airplane must fly over only ten minutes before the rescue commenced. That, of course, is to minimize the possibility of the kidnapers discovering they had barred their door. But do you think it possible one of both women may sleep in the same room with them?"

His query was directed at Hugh, and Hugh promptly answered it.

"It think it not only possible but highly probable, and that, of course, limits our time to the interval between dark and bedtime. That will call for the closest coordination between our forces and your plane."

He looked at Dicky, and I held my breath. Would my husband read a challenge of his ability into that quiet assertion.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Aug. 28

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds a warning of rather unhappy and sorrowful conditions although matters may be lively and interesting. There may be ill news of an older, and deep concern in the affectional, domestic or social affiliations. An opening for change or travel is likely, but these might not be deemed fortunate at the time.

Those whose birthday it is have a year of much disruption, unsettlement and concern ahead of them. This may be involved with the adverse conditions of an elderly person or old established institution but private affairs may be besieged by bereavement, unhappiness and ill luck. Letters or writings may bring some advantage. A child born on this day may be nervous and clever, but unsettled, restless, willful and moody, an influence which may react unfavorably on its private life unless it be taken in hand for direction in its infancy.

Nothing nativity: Goethe, poet.

For Monday, Aug. 29

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for the advancement of one's own secret plans and ambitions, with intriguing conditions—or attainment through subtle or irregular arrangements or understandings. It is a time for curious, peculiar or eccentric engagements or associations. Large bodies, rings, secret societies may bring benefits or advancement. Employment and finance seem well fortified.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of splendid adventures or connections, possibly involving secret understandings, subtle activities or intrigue. But promotion, preferment and profitable affiliations are made in employment and finance, and probably through tact, secrecy, or unusual methods or arrangements. A child born on this day should attain to good position in business.

Nativity nativity: Mr. George Washington, statesman.

Gasco Club, Presbies in Opener of Little World Series

CHRISTIANS TO MEET K. P. NINE TUESDAY IN SECOND CONFLICT

Battle for City Diamond Crown Promises To Be Bitterly Contested.

The Gasco club of the Industrial League and the First Presbyterians of the No. 1 Sunday school circuit, two of the foremost contenders for the city diamond championship will cross bats Monday at Lincoln park in the first battle of the 1938 Little World Series. The Central Christians of the No. 2 Sunday school circuit and the K. P. lodge of the Commercial division will make their first start against each other on Tuesday. All series games are slated to commence at 8 p. m. Drawings for the first two games were made last night at the Y. M. C. A. as the four managers met to complete arrangements for the annual titular conflict.

Each team must lose two games before it is eliminated from the series. After the opening two games the losers of the first two games will play on Thursday and this will cut the competing field to three teams as one will have to lose its second game at this time. The winners of the first two games will meet in the next clash.

William (Pop) Wille, who has been working ball games here something like seven years, was named umpire-in-chief by the four managers. His assistants will be Guy Stoner, A. L. Franklin and Bert Currie. Harry (Red) Welch was named an alternate official. There will be an umpire on every base.

The series this season promises to be one of the most bitterly contested in many seasons. The First Presbyterians boast what is possibly the strongest team ever to represent a Sunday school league in the world series. The Gasco club has a brilliant array of fence busting batters and is also a good defensive club. The K. P. has a tight defensive team although not a heavy hitting aggregation. The Christian Senators have romped through their league with an impressive record and although they do not appear quite as strong as the other three entries the proteges of Paul Rice are easily capable of causing other series entries no end of difficulty.

COUCH-MORELAND IN TOURNAY FINAL

By The Associated Press

ROCKFORD COUNTRY CLUB, Ill., Aug. 27.—Couch-Moreland, 21-year-old Dallas, Tex., sharpshooter, found a "week-end" golfer in his road today as he made his final assault on the Western amateur championship.

His rival in the final 36-hole struggle was Ira "Ike" Couch, 27-year-old Chicago broker, who took around the golf yards on week-ends only.

Not many observers gave him much more than a fighting chance to turn back the iron-nerved Texan except his golfing cronies, who knew his habit of "hooking" on off.

Moreland survived a dramatic battle yesterday, in overhauling Charlie Seaver of Los Angeles, one up, in a match that didn't let up until the last putt. So heated was the struggle that it was knotted six times in the course of 36 holes.

RUTH STARR WINS WOMEN'S NET TITLE

Triumphing over her opponent Jane Raub in straight sets, Ruth Starr yesterday romped off with the women's tennis championship of the city. Miss Starr captured the match by decisive scores of 6-0, 6-2 and 6-0.

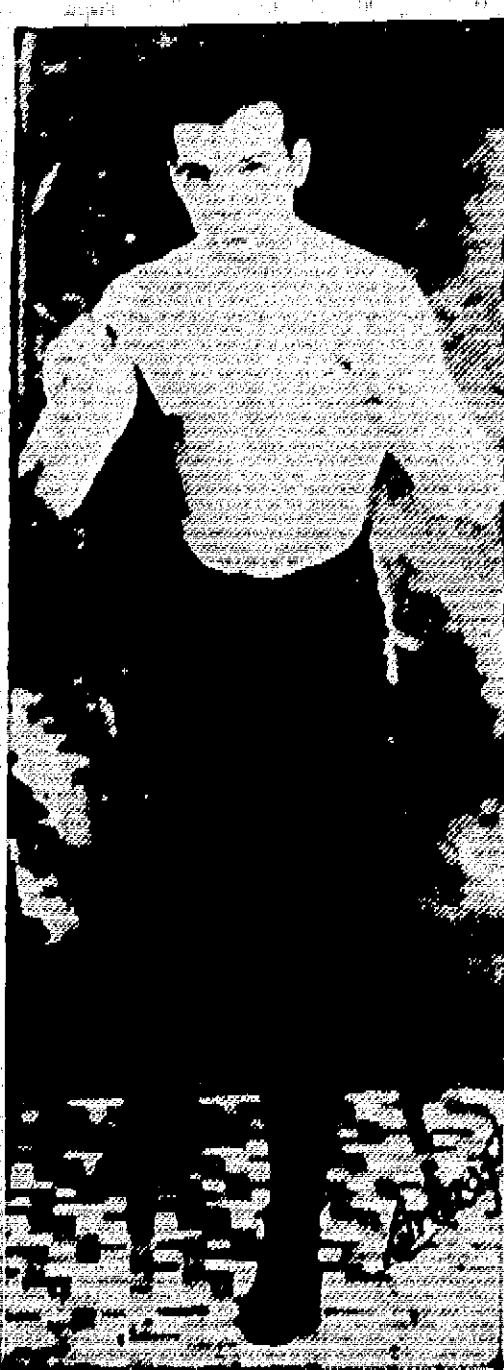

The semi-finals doubles match slated yesterday between Wolfinger and Cunningham and Yazel and Penry was rained out. It will be played at 5 p. m. today with the finals slated for a week from today.

Games Postponed.

The games scheduled yesterday in the Intermediate softball league were postponed on account of wet grounds. They will be played Monday afternoon.

For persons who smoke in automobiles a match scratcher has been invented that can be attached to a spoke of a steering wheel.

MAT NEWCOMER

TWO EVENTS TO END SHOOT AT VANDALIA

Doubles Title Up for Decision in Final Day of Firing.

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 27.—Nine days of continuous firing at clay targets in the "Grand American" handicap tournament will end today when the doubles championship of North America for men, women and professionals will be decided.

In addition to settling the doubles titles, the $500 Vandalia open is also billed for this afternoon. Gus Payne, from Oklahoma City, who has been near the top all week, but not quite in the money, will defend his two-target title won last year, when he smashed 180 out of a possible 200.

The tournament reached its climax yesterday when Arthur E. Sheffield, of Dixon, Ill., a railway postal clerk, won the Grand American handicap, the highest honor and richest prize in the gun world. Sheffield's victory was more impressive when weather conditions were taken into consideration. Standing on the 21-yard line facing a driving rain that at times almost obscured sight of the targets, the Illinois marksman cracked 98 out of 100.

RAVIER AGAIN COPS MARATHON CROWN

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 27.—Once more Margaret Ravier has proved her mastery over her sex in the women's marathon swim, annually one of the sporting features of the Canadian national exhibition.

The husky Philadelphia blonde covered the 10-mile course in Lake Ontario yesterday in five hours, 22 minutes, 18 seconds to win the grudge for the third year in succession and with it a cash prize of $3,000.

Evlyn Armstrong of Detroit was second in 8:37:03, winning $1,500.

Carey vs. Delaware.

Don Donelson's semi-pros of Carey will tackle Delaware, champions of the Heart of Ohio league Sunday at the Carey diamond. A great battle is expected as both teams have crack pitchers and strong all-around lineups. Nibert, Delaware pitcher, has won 17 and lost two and has a strikeout record of 10 a game.

SOFTBALL TITLE AT STAKE AS COLUMBUS, MANSFIELD COLLIDE

Crack Teams Battle at Lincoln Park Sunday in Ohio Tourney Final.

Marion's premier independent softball attraction will be presented Sunday afternoon at Lincoln park when the Columbus Safety Club and Prospect Park team of Mansfield cross bats in the championship conflict of the Ohio state softball tournament. These two teams are the sole survivors of the field of 20 crack teams which started five weeks ago to determine which team had the best right to claim the softball championship of Ohio. Victory in this tournament will not give the winner undisputed claim of the Ohio championship but it will probably give them the strongest claim of any team in the state.

Battle In Sight. Fans who are on hand Sunday to see the battle between Mansfield and Columbus are almost certain of seeing a nip and tuck battle, one in which the final outcome is in doubt until the final map is called out. Of course, predicting what will happen in a ball game is something like predicting the weather. It's not always accurate, by any means. Either team might break loose and win by a comfortable margin but such is not likely to be the case. Both will probably have to fight for every run they get.

Doc Stith, the elongated speed-ball artist of the capital city, will probably start the twirling for the Safety Club. Stith's blazing fast ball has carried him through the tourney to date although he had considerable difficulty last week in downing the fast Marion "Paint" company team. His opponent is certain to be Speed Gettles. Gettles has an even more impressive record than Stith to date in the tourney and can be relied on to furnish all kinds of difficulty for the Columbus batters. His ball is not quite so fast as that of Stith but has more on it.

Plenty of Clubbers. Both teams have an array of clubbers that is poison to any pitcher. Columbus hasn't a weak hitter in the lineup and about five of regulars are likely to break up a game anytime with a four-py wallop. Mansfield has only two men who are not better than average sticklers and the majority of the sticklers are good for a lot of extra base knocks.

A nine-inning game between the Jenner Lunchees of Marion and Peagar Clubbers of Findlay is slated as a preliminary to this game. It will also match two good ball bats and should provide plenty of action. It will start promptly at 1:45 p. m. with the Columbus-Mansfield battle billed for 3 p. m. Both will be nine-inning frays.

YANKS CAPTURE GOLFING HONORS

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Horton Smith's team of American-born golf professionals today had a decision over Tommy Armour's foreign born stars, but it was as close as a two-inch pull.

After working up a 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 advantage over the "Yankees" in four-ball play Thursday, the home boys came back yesterday and squeezed out a 6 1/2 to 5 1/2 edge, at match play yesterday, for a total score of 10 to 8. Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., added a 67 to his 69 of Thursday in defeating Clarence Hackney, 4 and 3, for the best work of the day.

All-Stars Win, 8-2.

Crawford Regains Lead in Association Batting Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—With Mike Powers gone from the league and a little improvement of his own average, Ed Crawford, Columbus' first baseman, climbed back into the batting leadership of the American Association last week.

Crawford added four points to his mark, boosting it to .371, and led his teammate, Evar Swanson, by five points, and the pair, between them, held four other individual leads. Swanson was the best base stealer, with 42, and also had batted in 125 runs, four more than Crawford's total. In addition, he had hit safely 205 times, to lead Joe Mowry of Minneapolis by one blow. Crawford held the edge in total bases with 828.

Mowry had scored the handsome total of 140 runs to lead in that respect, and other two divisions, doubles and triples, were led by Ed Crawford, Columbus' first baseman, with 16 triumphs and six defeats.

FOXX, KLEIN CLING TO MAJOR SHARE OF HONORS IN BATTING

However, Few Records in Danger. Despite Terrific Battle for Top.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Despite the terrific battle for major league slugging honors that has been going on between Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics and Chuck Klein of the Phillies few if any records appear endangered by their efforts so far. However, Foxx, hitting his forty-seventh home run yesterday, remained well ahead of the schedule Babe Ruth followed in setting his mark of 60 while Paul Waner of Pittsburgh, with 51 doubles, threatens Klein's National League record of 59.

There were few changes in the standing of the battling leaders in either league this week.

Frank O'Doul of Brooklyn continued to lead both circuits at .368 while Foxx, American league leader, moved up three points to .357.

Other leading National league batters were Hurst, Phillies, .352; Klein, Phillies, .350; V. Davis, Phillies, .348; P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .346; Orantli, St. Louis, .337; Stephenson, Chicago, .335; L. Waner, Pittsburgh, .333; Ott, New York, .331, and Terry, New York, .328.

The American league's first ten was completed by Gehrig, New York, .348; Ruth, New York, .346; Manush, Washington, .345; Ferrill, St. Louis, .331; Jolley, Boston, .330; Combs, New York, .322; Walker, Detroit, .322; Cronin, Washington, .321, and Burns, St. Louis, .319.

FACES YOUNGSTER IN TOURNAY FINAL

By The Associated Press
PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, the defending champion, and an experienced campaigner, and Lucille Robinson, a youngster from Des Moines, Ia., faced off in the 36-hole final battle for the women's western golf title today.

Mrs. Hill, winner of the title in 1929, and 1931, was favored to overcome her younger, less experienced adversary, but the struggle was expected to last most of the day. The Kansas City star yesterday reached the final by a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Tom Wallace, of Tulsa, Okla.

Miss Robinson defeated Mrs. Roy Greene, of Glendale, Calif., by the same margin.

At Coaching School.

M. L. Barnhart, athletic director of Pleasant High school, is attending the basketball coaching school this week at Massillon. This is the largest coaching school of its kind in the state, being attended by more than 100 coaches from widely scattered places. The instructors are Dr. H. C. Carlson of University of Pittsburgh, and Everett Case, one of Indiana's most successful mentors.

CUBS GET BREATHING SPELL AFTER TAKING ROBINS 3 STRAIGHT

Dodgers Now Face New Battle To Hold Second as Pirates Start Winning.

By The Associated Press
For the first time since Charley Grimm took over the reins, the Chicago Cubs can afford to sit back and take a breathing spell. Winners of seven consecutive games and of 17 of the 22 they've played under Grimm's leadership, the Cubs today were six and a half games in front of the National league field.

They trounced the pennant-hungry Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday for the third time in a row, 10-4, smashing Hollis Thurston, Dizzy Vance and Jack Quinn for eight hits and nine runs in the third inning. Behind that lead Lon Warneke coasted to his 19th victory of the campaign. The sensational rookie right-hander has lost only five games, three of them to the Dodgers.

The Dodgers, their pennant hopes temporarily dimmed, now must turn their attention to holding on to second place. While they were taking their trouncing at Chicago, the Pittsburgh Pirates, behind the seven-hit pitching of Leon Chagnon, blanked the Phillies, 8-0, and moved to within half a game of the Dodgers.

The only other National league game of the day provided Dizzy Dean with a chance to win his second game in three days. He pitched the Cardinals to a 4-2 decision over the New York Giants, allowing only five hits.

There was no change in the relative standing of the American league leaders as the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics both won. Johnny Allen outpitched Wes Ferrell, as the Yankees beat Cleveland, 4-2. Gehrig's 29th homer and Ruth's 37th helped the young right hander hang up his eighth successive victory.

Home runs by Bob Grove, Al Simmons and Jimmie Foxx, the latter's 47th of the campaign, helped the Athletics to whip the St. Louis Browns, 6-4, although it was Simmons' single in the ninth that drove across the winning run. The Chicago White Sox collected 18 hits, including seven doubles, and two home runs, and still managed to lose a decision to the Boston Red Sox, 11-8.
